STCW stands for the International Convention on Standards of Training, Certification, and Watchkeeping for Seafarers. It is a key international maritime treaty established by the International Maritime Organization (IMO), which sets standards for the training, certification, and watchkeeping of seafarers to ensure that they have the necessary skills and competence to work safely and effectively on ships.

This is required by anyone working on a commercial vessel, including officers, engineers, ratings, and other crew members. The RYA Powerboat Level 2 certificate qualifies you to drive powerboats with an engine up to 10 meters (33 feet) in length. The course covers both planing and displacement hulls, so you're trained to operate a variety of boat types.

This licence allows you to operate a boat up to 2 miles from the shore, assuming you are within the confines of non-tidal waters (like inland lakes, rivers, or canals). MCA YACHT RATING

The Maritime and Coastguard Agency (MCA) is the British government department responsible for regulating the maritime affairs of the UK. As such, the MCA is very important in the yachting world because the vast majority of vessels are registered under the UK flag and any mega-yacht training that is not MCA-approved should be viewed with skepticism. The Yacht Rating Course is the lowest level of MCA-approved training and is the only MCA yachting certificate that can be issued to people with no relevant experience. Prospective employers will be assured that holders of this certificate have had approved training and are prepared to invest in preparing themselves for their future careers.

This course reduces the required time to apply for an MCA Yacht Rating from 6 months to 2 months as per MSN 1862. Six months after the MCA Yacht Rating COC is issued, candidates will be able to sit in the MCA Efficient Deckhand course.

RYA COMPETENT CREW PRACTICAL

This course is for beginners and those who would like to become active crew members. Virtually all of the course is hands-on. You are the crew - without you, the sails won't go up and the boat won't be steered. By the end of the course, you should be able to steer, handle sails, keep a lookout, row a dinghy, and assist in all day-to-day duties on board.

The RYA Competent Crew Course is an excellent starting point for anyone interested in becoming an effective member of a yacht crew, particularly for those pursuing careers as stewardesses or deckhands on superyachts.

Benefits for Stews and Deckhands

For a Stew. This enhances your overall understanding of yacht operations, improves guest service, and contributes to safety.

For a Deckhand it provides essential sailing skills, improves role efficiency, and prepares you for emergency situations.

Qualification

You will be a competent crew member, able to assist with sailing, maneuvering, and emergency procedures but not qualified to command or operate a yacht independently.

This prepares you to assist on sailing yachts but does not qualify you to drive or command a vessel.

You will be trained to sail in moderate coastal conditions, not in extreme weather.
